"I've been a member of Temple Physicians for nine years, and I'm extremely satisfied with their management style. As a Temple practice, I'm given the freedom to develop and manage my practice in a way that supports the unique needs of my patients and their communities."

"As a Temple physician, I retained the autonomy to organize my practice in a manner that best meets my patients' individual needs. At the same time, my association with a large health system like Temple has provided the necessary resources to strengthen the services my practice offers."

"After years of being my own boss, I was apprehensive about working for a health system. Fortunately, my transition to a Temple practice was smooth and nearly seamless. Through the cooperative efforts of the Temple Physicians administration, I was able to keep my practice intact and growing. It's now been over five years since I joined, and I can honestly say I have no regrets and look forward to many successful years ahead."

— James McDonald, DO

"Joining Temple Physicians after 20 years in private practice was one of the best decisions I've ever made. The privilege of working with an underserved, urban population has reinvigorated my career. Once again I feel like an asset to my patients and the surrounding community, and I'm eager to come to the office everyday. I've also been able to maintain a great deal of independence in managing my practice, while still taking advantage of all the resources that Temple Health has to offer. My practice has grown significantly with the help of Temple Physicians and my office staff."
